TO: The Registry of the Federal Court of Appeal

FROM: GAUTHIER J.A.

DATE: November 14, 2014

RE: A-218-14
Dr. Gabor Lukacs v. Canadian Transportation Agency

In his letter dated October 27, 2014, the applicant requests that the motion for leave to intervene of the Privacy Commissioner of Canada (PC) be held in abeyance until the transcript of his examination on affidavit is received and his eventual motion to compel answers is determined.

The transcript of the examination should by now be in the hands of the applicant. But, no motion has yet been filed to compel answers or to seek an extension of the time to respond to the PC motion.

The applicant shall have until November 20, 2014 to serve and file its said motion to compel answers and to seek an extension of the time to respond to the PC motion. If no such motion is filed by that date, the Court will deal with the PC motion on the basis of the material on file at that date. If a motion is filed as directed above, the PC motion will be held in abeyance until the applicant's motion is determined by the Court.
